Dear Bill:

Slowly, but surely, I AM getting caught up on things. Well, at least I'm getting some things taken care of. The certificates of recognition are going out today, for example.

I read through the minutes and they look good....very good, in fact...nice job! There are some minor corrections, which I've noted on the attached. I'm sorry that you had to type in all the meeting business, as I could have given you a copy of my stuff and saved you some work.

I've also enclosed my latest attempt at accounting relative to meeting expenses. As my husband can verify, it is a very good thing that I didn't want to be a CPA. I will have to go back over these as the bills start to come in, but as you can see, it looks as if we actually made some money on this meeting (apparently from the banquet???)

I should say, however, that the last time I did the accounting, it looked like there was $50 or so in expenses which were not covered by the listed revenue. In short, the section might still end up making a contribution, but it shouldn't be much.

I suspect that my notations also leave something to be desired, so feel free to send e-mail with your questions. I am going to be in Washington DC for most of June, and am currently vacationing in Arizona, but will be electronically connected during this time.

I hear Colorado Springs had snow last week....were you driving over the mountains again?!?!

Best,

Janet
